America's Leading Club Woman Inspects Center

(Studio of the Cliffs)

MRS. D. C. MUCHMORE GREETS MRS. LA FELL DICKINSON, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, in front of the new Ocean Beach Community Center. Reading left to right are Mrs. E. W. Shirk, junior adviser for the General Federation; Mrs. Dickinson; Mrs. Mark F. Jones; Mrs. C. W. Early of Ocean Beach, first vice-president of the County Federation; Mrs. Muchmore, chairman of the Ocean Beach Civic Committee; and Mrs. Mariebelle Allen.

OTHER NOTED CLUBWOMEN ADD COMMENDATION ON VISIT TO CENTER MAY 22

Mrs. La Fell Dickinson, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs and honored guest of the 44th annual state convention of the California Federation of Women's Clubs, held in Coronado last week, paid a visit May 22 to the Ocean Beach Community Center where she was greeted by Mrs. D. C. Muchmore, chairman of the Center's Ocean Beach committee.

Praising the work of the local committee and the entire community Mrs. Dickinson, who during her 3-year term as General Federation president, has been stressing youth conservation, said, "This building is wonderful. California is far ahead of all other states as far as providing recreation facilities for youth. It always makes me happy to see a building like this one, as youth conservation is my work."

Following a tour of the building Mrs. Dickinson in the youth activity room listened with interest as Mrs. Muchmore gave a word picture of how the Community Center became a reality. The housing of the local Girl Scout troops and Mrs. Muchmore's leadership with them brought special notice from Mrs. Dickinson.

Also praising the Ocean Beach leaders for building this Community Center was Mrs. Mark F. Jones of Pasadena, Youth Conservation chairman for the California Federation of Women's Clubs, who accompanied Mrs. Dickinson on her visit. Mrs. Jones had appeared on a youth program at the Ocean Beach Woman's club with Rev. J. F. Roberts, who headed the committee when he served as pastor of the Point Loma Methodist church. The program was sponsored during Mrs. C. W. Early's administration as club president and to familiarize Mrs. Jones with the Community center plans. "My, I didn't realize it was to be so large. This is wonderful and every community should have a building of this type. "You are giving the youth of this community a chance to help themselves and I'm most interested in your family nights," Mrs. Jones said as she inspected the rooms.

Equally enthusiastic over this community's achievement in acquiring a place for youths and adults to play together were Mrs. E. W. Shirk of Redlands, junior adviser for the General Federation of Women's Clubs, and Mrs. Maribell Allen, prominent business woman of Culver City.

The visit was arranged by Mrs. Early as she renewed her acquaintance with Mrs. Dickinson following their meeting in San Francisco at the United Nation Conference where Mrs. Dickinson served as Consultant for the General Federation.

P. T. A. Appeals for Help in June 5th Drive for Paper

The Ocean Beach Parent-Teacher association asked the Ocean Beach News to this week publish the following appeal for help to make the next salvage paper drive (June 5) bigger and better than ever, the announcement being provided by Mrs. Ralph Follick, News Service chairman of the P. T. A.:

"Save your newspapers and magazines. Tie them in separate bundles and be ready for Thursday, June 5, when the Ocean Beach Elementary School and Ocean Beach P. T. A. will hold a paper salvage drive.

"For those who are not able to bring their papers to the school grounds on Thursday morning, June 5, pickup service will be arranged. For further details call the school or your nearest P. T. A. board member. Our former salvage drive was a big success. Let's make this one bigger and better yet."

Paul Farrar of the Point Loma high school faculty has been elected treasurer for next year of the San Diego City Schools Teachers association.

OFFICER SHIRKEY TO LEAVE POLICE FORCE JULY 1

Announcement was made this week that Desk Officer Alex Shirkey of the Ocean Beach police station will terminate his duties with the police force on July 1. Officer Shirkey had spent 27 years in the police department at Schenectady, N. Y., where he was chief of detectives. Upon retiring Mr. Shirkey came to San Diego to make his home, but at the outbreak of war he decided to get back in harness and volunteered his services to the San Diego department.

After this retirement, which Officer Shirkey insists is the "final one," he and Mrs. Shirkey plan a vacation trip to Schenectady and then will return to Ocean Beach to make their permanent home.

Touring Bicyclist Writes from Gulf Metropolis May 12

May 12, 1947.
Thursday, 6 p. m.

Dear Ol' Faithful:

I swished into Galveston today at 11 a. m., found the post office and oodles of mail. Standing in the shade (I was oozing from every pore) by the P. O. door, I ripped open the envelopes and read greedliy, laughing out loud, heedless of staring onlookers. How is it possible for one person to be so happy?

Mom, I just rolled through clouds out to the beach, clouds with rows of varicolored oleander bushes growing in them. My head swam with my blessings—my heart full with love—for the goodness and kindness of everyone.

All the way from Houston to Galveston the traffic beeped their acknowledgment of my tour, or called out, "Welcome to Galveston," or drove slowly beside me talking to me. One woman sat by the road waiting for me to pass, so she could wish me a safe and pleasant journey. Perhaps that's where my amazing luck comes from, all the people like her have wished it to me with their sincerity.

On the beach I stopped to get my picture taken to send to you.

O. B. News Business Office Moves to 1920 Bacon Street Monday

Keeping pace with the expansion of Ocean Beach and its business district, the Swan Printing Company this week announces the enlarging of its plant and the consolidation of its present two addresses into one central location. The business office, which has been located at 4952 Newport Ave. will be moved this week-end to the newly acquired building at 1920 Bacon Street, which formerly housed the Lucille Iverson Dance Studio. Miss Iverson has moved her studio to 1918 Bacon St., former address of the Francis Pierce Antique Shop.

The added space and unified location will afford the customers, subscribers and friends of the Ocean Beach News, Ocean Beach Shoppers Guide and Point Loma Light more efficient service. Space devoted to printing and publishing equipment will be almost doubled, and the result will be faster service, especially on job printing orders.

The company takes this opportunity to invite the friends of the newspapers of the peninsula area to stop in and visit the new business office and enlarged plant.

Parking Problem To Be Discussed At C. C. Meeting

SURVEY OF WISHES OF MERCHANTS IN MATTER CONDUCTED THIS WEEK

Parking, the livest problem before the local Chamber of Commerce this month, is the main topic for discussion for the June general membership meeting, to be held Monday evening, June 2, at the Ocean Beach Woman's clubhouse, 2160 Bacon St., Program Chairman Dick Hilmen announced Thursday.

Main speaker will be James Reading, San Diego city traffic engineer. The city officials, he told the local directors at their last meeting, are in favor of parallel parking on Newport Ave.

In order to get a line on the wishes of the local merchants, a special committee named at the last directors meeting, this week is carrying on a survey and asking for a vote of the merchants, and will make a report of their findings at Monday night's meeting.

A cordial invitation to attend the session Monday is extended not only to all C. of C. members but also to all other Ocean Beach men and women interested in the problems before this organization.

Work to Start Mon. On Improvements at Silver Spray Hotel

Work will begin Monday on construction of the six new units which will be built into the present structure of the Silver Spray Hotel, reports Roy Riner, owner. These units will be located in the western, seaward end of the main building, where the San Diego School of Arts and Crafts was formerly located.

The preliminary work on landscaping of the grounds is now complete. This work included filling in the old Silver Spray pool, building an extensive retaining wall against the bank south of the hotel, and other concrete walls to provide windbreaks and add to the appearance of the grounds.

The interior work starting Monday will initiate an ambitious program of improvements which will eventually provide 21 new units for the convenience of Ocean Beach's tourist trade.

The next construction will include seven outside units, an office building and quarters for the manager and his family. S. H. Stephens is manager, assisted by Mrs. Stephens. These seven units will be located on the high bank south of the main building.

Upon completion, the remodeled and enlarged hotel and courts will boast central heating; telephones in each unit, with a central switchboard; maid service in all units; a large private parking lot; and numerous other improvements.

Point Loma High Wins 1947 League Title in Baseball

Without losing a league game, the Pointers of Point Loma high school Friday afternoon captured the Metro league baseball championship for 1947. Coach Don Clarkson's lads won all six league games played during the season, and in addition won 18 out of the 25 non-league games played. "We also had the satisfaction of getting revenge on every high school team of the non-league teams that had defeated us," Coach Clarkson stated Monday in commenting on the Pointers' season record. Five of the non-league victories were games played in the Pomona baseball tournament of April 1 and 2, he said.

Final victory of the season was at Convair field Friday afternoon when the Pointers defeated Sweetwater High by a score of 5 to 2, in one of the best played games of the season. The Pointers totaled 10 hits and one error and Sweetwater five hits and three errors. Batteries were Kaneyuki and Strauss for Point Loma and Graciano and Campbell for Sweetwater.

The Pointers scored one run each in the third, fourth, fifth,

Letters to the Editor

(By Assemblyman Frank Luckel)

A bill has passed the Assembly to authorize pensions for State Legislators. I voted "No" on this.

Some further legislation may be taken up including a ban on certain types of picketing and upon jurisdictional and organizational strikes.

Hearings have been held before Assembly Committee relative to the proposal to have a State Rental Control Agency set up and same won't get out of Committee.

The war time shortening of hours during which liquor stores may be open will be made permanent in all probability.

A. B. 1337, by myself, for payment of Crystal Pier claim, $946.98, has received recommendation "Do Pass" from Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

The State Caravan Act will probably not be repealed. This is the law that makes a charge of $15 for every machine driven into the state for sale. It also includes those driven for sale across an imaginary line located between the Bay Area and Southern California. An amendment was proposed to exempt trucks from this

Editor and Wife Home from Vacation Trip of 7370 Miles

Editor and Mrs. Frank F. Swan arrived home Friday from their 7370-mile vacation trip lasting seven weeks, and herewith follows the remainder of the travelog he wrote of the tour:

Week ended May 2—Spent this week in Moline, Ill., the "Plow City." Accordingly, no particular travels—the time was taken up mostly visiting relatives, attending the Moline Kiwanis club meeting, playing golf twice and enjoying bowling once. We had one side trip from Moline—drove to Iowa City, Iowa, seat of the University of Iowa (10,000 students)—this year celebrating its centennial—100 years of supplying higher education to young Iowans. Incidentally it's my alma mater—only 2300 students when I was in school there, with the buildings then all on the east side of Iowa river. Now the campus totals 425 acres and occupies more than 50 buildings, most of them on the new campus west of Iowa river.

We've had weather here and mostly not of the San Diego variety. For example on that Iowa City trip we ran into a cold wind that blew 55 miles an hour. Only one day of the past week gave us "California" weather—the others were two wet and too cold.

Week ended May 10—We took in the "tall corn" state of Iowa, mostly visiting relatives at Waterloo, Nevada and Storm Lake. This central state of the corn belt, the state with the least waste land of any of the 48, of course looked good to me, being my native state. Except for a visit there occasionally, however, I have lost all desire to live there again. In fact very soon after moving to San Diego in 1943 I lost all desire to live in any of the four states where I have had previous residence. Other towns in Iowa we stopped at were Clarion, where I first met Mrs. Swan, and Hampton. Though the Iowa farmers were about two weeks later than average with their spring field work account of too much rain, they were ahead of those in the farming sections of Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri, through which we drove. In northwest Iowa, however, we found many fields in need of rain and the spring work nearer complete than in any other part of the state. Particularly was this true around Storm Lake, the community where I spent my boyhood and youth. As for changes on the old farm where I grew up what I missed most was the old one-room schoolhouse, where I received all my elementary school education, and which stood for years on one corner of our old farm. Just a couple of years ago, I found, this and many other Iowa country schools have passed out of the rural education picture in Iowa, no doubt never to return. The pupils are now transported to consolidated schools in nearby towns.

Week ended May 17—First half of the week we were at Renville, Minn., the town where Mrs. Swan was born and where she lived her first nine years. This town was the home for many years of Banker M. F. Dowling, the cripple who gained national fame after World War I in showing crippled war veterans how to live, and make a living. Dowling, as a boy, had lost both legs, one arm and part of his other hand in a Minnesota blizzard. We encountered rain in Minnesota and noted numerous fields along our route partially under water and practically all of them too wet for any field work.

From Renville we headed home to Ocean Beach through Sioux City to Council Bluffs, Iowa, crossing muddy old Missouri river at Omaha. While the large cities of Iowa had unusually rough brick pavement, we found Omaha had smooth-surfaced their brick-paved streets, so driving through Omaha was comparatively a real pleasure. Drove through southeastern Nebraska, a rolling, picturesque farming section. In northeastern Kansas we ran onto a stretch of eight miles of road that had been torn up and regraded. As we were then driving in rain we really were fearful we would slide into the roadside ditch. At Topeka, Kans., we inspected the State Capitol building, one of the most attractive of many state capitols we have seen. At Emporia, Kans., I visited the office of the Emporia Gazette, the small city daily newspaper that for many years had been published by the noted William Allen White, recently deceased.

From Emporia west the drive through Kansas was one of the most pleasurable of our entire trip. We found a few fields with the wheat already headed out. All along our route, which was U. S. No. 50, the countryside appeared lush and green and all the trees leafed out. In southeastern Colorado, except for an irrigated tract around Lamar, our route lay through sagebrush waste land mostly. West of Lamar, 18 miles, we halted to see the new

UNITED LUTHERAN CHURCH CONFERS CLASS OF SIX AT SUNDAY'S SERVICES

The first confirmation class was confirmed last Sunday at the 11 a. m. service at St. Peter's-by-the-Sea United Lutheran church, which is temporarily meeting at the Thursday clubhouse building, at 1224 Santa Barbara St. and Sunset Cliffs, reports the pastor, Rev. E. J. Johnson. The class consisited of the following members: Joyce Kunath, Mary Jean Schneider, Jane Titlow, Fay Schroeder, Burton Skinner and Wallace Skinner.

The following adults were also received into church membership at the same service: Mrs. C. L. McNaughton, Mr. and Mrs. H. O Docken, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon L. Delameter, Mr. and Mrs. Orin Docken and Miss Lillian Docken.

LOCAL FIRM THANKS BUSINESSMEN FOR HELP IN CANCER CAMPAIGN

Paul Slaughter, owner of the Canteen Service of San Diego, has asked the News to thank the businessmen of Ocean Beach who aided the recent Cancer campaign by permitting the International 20-30 club to place donation containers on their premises.

As a member of the 20-30 club of San Diego, Mr. Slaughter donated much of his own time and also that of his employees for the work of placing the containers throughout the beach area, collecting them at the end of the campaign and assisting in other necessary details.

S. G. Folsom of 4711 Cape May Ave. is recovering from an operation performed April 28.

$15 million John Morris irrigation dam on the Arkansas river which when finally completed is expected to impound 650,000 acre feet of water.

Week ended May 23, the last week of our 7370-mile trip—Entering New Mexico from southeastern Colorado our first stop was in the historic city of Santa Fe. Through Kansas, Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona the road we drove home was largely the old Santa Fe Trail. Narrow business streets and pueblo styled business houses characterized Santa Fe which claims the distinction of having been a seat of provincial, territorial and state government the longest of any city in the U. S., three centuries, in fact. They claim to have had about 300 governors and that the "Palace of Governors," adobe building in the center of the city, has housed these governors during all that period.

After stops at Albuquerque and Gallup we left New Mexico for Arizona and the Grand Canyon. En route we enjoyed the "Painted Desert" and the "Petrified Forest" about 70 miles west of Gallup on U. S. highway 66. Both are really worth a few hours halt.

The Grand Canyon of the Colorado river, 217 miles long, 10 miles from rim to rim and a mile deep, is really worth taking more than one day to see. All we had time for was seeing it from the south top, the south rim. No visitor there should fail to hear the two main lectures given daily, one by Elmer Kolb, now 67, famous navigator of the death dealing Colorado river rapids, the other "the story of the Grand Canyon" by Edwin D. McKee, assistant director of the North Arizona Museum.

From the canyon en route home we stopped at Prescott, Ariz., a delightful small city of 5354-foot altitude, and at Palm Springs, Calif., noted winter resort for southern California folks. There we were too hot, even hotter than we were driving through the Mojave desert to get to Palm Springs. In less than 25 miles west from Palm Springs, however, we were out of the heat and though the sky was overcast most of the remaining 150 miles we drove home in distinct comfort—to Ocean Beach, where we have the nearest to heavenly climate this old earth affords.

TEEN CHATTER

(By Alyce Rosa)

Prom talk is foremost in the minds of teenagers these days! Point Loma High school's seniors are looking ahead to June 17 when their high school days will be climaxed by a super-terrific prom to be presented in the Crown Room of the Hotel Del Coronado. The Juniors are discussing their prom too! Presented last Friday night in the girls' gym of the school, this dance was one of the best planned, best managed, best supported and most successful affairs the Point has seen. Much credit and a hardy round of applause go to General Chairman Charlotte Henderson and her hard-working assistants, Dave Thompson, junior class president; Mal Silva and "Poppy" Wilson, entertainment chairmen; June Belloff, publicity director, and members of the junior council. An aquatic motif, featuring fish (real and paper) and fish nets, carried out the "Undercurrent" theme. The sun-deck was converted into a breath-taking aquarium, while in the gym dancers danced in the light of a lighthouse beam which revolved and threw multi-colored beams upon the "waters." Junior class adviser, Mr. Thomas Walt, and Mrs. Walt crowned Mal Silva and Poppy Wilson "King Neptune and his Queen." Runner-ups for this honor, Bill Helm-Lou Cure, Ed Browning-Wilma Pense, Bud-Wilson-Glee Randolph and Ray Keough-Shirley Hill were named attendants to the royal pair and were presented with flowers by Mrs. Walt. Just a few of the many couples on hand at this trez gay affair were John Traxler-Nancy Fieger (who looked muchly sophisticated in black—nice!) Bill Seamster-Ginny Clark, George Carter-Beverly Crume, Ronnie Young-Margie Mason, Ray Keough-Jeanne Spaulding, Bonnie Graham-David Ryan, Nola Plummer-Henry Hable, Lorraine Adams-Bob Smith, Margaret Bartley-Jimmy Hilton, Dottie Pierce-Jimmy Morse, Marian Mishler-Jimmy Piburn, and Jackie Greason-Hal Bloom.

Another fine dance is the semi-annual city schools R. O. T. C. "Regimental Ball" set for tonight in the gym at San Diego High. The music of Kenny O'Neal's orchestra has been signed for this always fine open-bid affair. Heading the festivities will be Colonel George Carter, Loman senior and his steady Beverly Crume, "Colonel's Lady."

From the younger teen set comes word of a surprise shin-dig recently hostessed by Pat Jacobson in honor of Dave Hammett on his birthday. 'Bout 25 kids gathered for a gay evening of dancing and eating.

Open houses are always popular with kids out this way! Two of the best were recently hostessed by Dee Clarke and Janie Bischoff after a recent dance. Dee's club-sisters—the Prims—were on hand to "assist in receiving" as they say on the society page! Another after dance festivity was a breakfast party which Lou Cure gave in her home recently. 'Bout half a dozen couples gathered for hot chocolate and scrambled eggs and hear tell that Lou's steady Bill Helm snoozed through it all!

Say, fellas 'n' gals, what do you think about the rumor that Lomans will adopt a "no corsage" policy for formal dances next season? This plan has worked out successfully (and economically) before and plans are definitely afoot to see about trying it out! How 'bout dropping the 'colyum' a line (in care of Ocean Beach News) with your opinions on the subject?

Have you ever gone swimming in the rain? Ask members of Point Loma High school's CSF chapter how it feels! Maybe Mr. Weatherman was trying to prove that skipping school does not pay, but whatever his reason, he provided a damp day for their semi-annual "Ditch Day" on May 22. In spite of it all, the kids reported a fine time at Del Mar—"beats school anyhow!"

Attention, Lomans! Circle the afternoon of June 2 on your calendar! According to prexy Emil Jouglet, the sophomore class has a fun-filled afternoon in store for the whole school. The first event of the newly organized class is to be a play, a variety show and magic show—all for the price of 25 cents on June 2.

The commencement committee for the class of '47 at Point Loma High school has announced the following speakers (chosen by their classmates) for the commencement exercises to be held on June 19 at the Greek Bowl on Catalina Blvd.: Mary Maw, Priscilla Allen and David Finster.

Lomans are rejoicing! For the first wing of the long awaited boys' gym went into construction this week. This unit will include a locker room and an armory for the R. O. T. C. and will be built facing Chatsworth at the end of the athletic field.

Once again we come to the end of our weekly round-up of 'all the news that's fit to print' with the teen crowd here on the beach—so, till next Friday, bye now! Anyone having news for Teen Chatter call B-5745!

(Editor's Note—Most of the teenage social clubs, such as Jades, Kampus Katz, La Chere, Le Tiki, news for TEEN CHATTER call Prims, Trez-N, Zettz, J. O., Quiggs, Oaks, and Rebels, which appear in TEEN CHATTER are not sponsored or supervised by the school authorities. They are social in nature and operate outside of school under their own informal by-laws).

Information on Grunion Obtained On Recent Survey

San Pedro, Los Angeles County—Significant information which may be used as an aid in regulating the seasons for grunion, was gathered recently during an elaborate survey by the Scripps Institute of Oceanography, assisted by the Bureaus of Marine Fisheries and Patrol, California Division of Fish and Game, and four other scientific institutions interested in Pacific Fisheries.

Twelve staff members of the Bureau of Marine Fisheries and two members of the Bureau of Patrol assisted in covering the beaches in Southern California and at Pismo, Morro and Monterey Bays.

Practically all of the Pacific coastline south of Monterey to Mexico was observed during the survey.

Observations were made of a phenomenally large run of grunion.

First thing I knew I was surrounded by vacationists and tourists who had read of me in the Houston paper and wanted my autograph, so the photographer took pictures for the publicity he was getting and I autographed them and gave them away, and told them about my trip.

In the boathouse I put on my blue sun suit and made a charge across the yellow-white sand to the water. Honest-to-goodness salt water, piled and rolled in foam-topped breakers. So this is the Gulf of Mexico! No, it must be a dream! This couldn't be that blue gulf that gives the bottom of the United States such a graceful curve on the maps! How could I have actually reached it on my bicycle?

The surge of the surf feels very difficult from the powerful cross-rossing onslaughts of the Pacific. This is more gentle and lacks the clear brilliance of the coast waters I grew up in. There are small groups of bathers all along the wide beach. Both the air and water have a welcome warmth. I miss the crowds of well tanned youths that hang out on the beaches at home—most everyone here is so white.

The hamburger I ate, while sitting at one of the umbrellaed tables had a 'specially good flavor. Maybe it was the salt air that made it seem the best hamburger I'd had since I left California. It came home to me then how much I'd missed the ocean. I plowed through the waves. They tossed me playfully and I laughed down in my throat.

I'm writing by the light of the roller rink.

I didn't get much sleep last night. I found a cozy place near a bayou, in some vines, but it was too hot to sleep inside the bedroll and too many mosquitoes to sleep out of it. At 6 in the morning, when I woke and was packing, the dog at the hidden shanty only a few feet from me, kept barking. His owner, who couldn't see me, hollered to shut him up and I wondered how often dogs are wrongly scolded.

I went out of my way to see the destroyed Texas City, but it was a relief to pass the last of the crumpled silver tanks and twisted masses and get on the Galveston highway again.

May 15, Port Arthur—Taking the only route east out of Galveston, I rode the ferry across the gate to Galveston bay, then rode through miles of low grass lands, on the Bolivar peninsula. From the Junction (124) to Sabine pass the highway lay on the sand of the beach. There wasn't as much traffic and I really breezed along. A light wind blew across me from the south and waved the sea of tall mud grass on my left. It was a lovely place to be! Ocean to the right of me making a twinkling horizon, billowing clouds above—masterpieces of loveliness against the changing blue of the sky. I kept thinking, "This is my own, my native land," as I rode alone in the glorious expansion. I had sung jubilantly all morning and now I took up the review of all the songs I know as the highway curved away.

When I stopped to eat grapefruit for lunch and cool my horsefly bitten feet in the salt water, I found shells of all description strewn on the beach.

Never before have I seen such quaitities of driftwood, huge tree trunks and roots, some discolored, some bleached. Some at the water's edge had acquired coatings of clams.

Ten miles from Sabine I stopped at a cafe on the beach, for water. When I left I had a man's long sleeve white summer shirt and a tummy full of gumbo (wild duck, shrimp, crab and okra) and some new friends, besides my full canteen.

There certainly is a lot of helpful, understanding and good people in this country.

At Sabine, I changed (in a restroom) to a fresh sunsuit, plus the white shirt to keep me from more sunburn. With the wind on my back, I made Port Arthur in an hour. In West Port Arthur sits one of the most amazing things I've ever seen. When it appeared before me from the bayous and swamps, I trembled to follow the highway into its midst. It roared and wheezed, coughed and sneezed, squeaked and screamed, belched and gurgled, spurted, rolled and writhed! It breathed smoke and fire and made a ghostly smell that choked me. I asked one of the lithe workmen moving fearlessly about, what it was. "Why, lady," he said, "this is one of the largest oil refineries in the world! It belongs to the Gulf Co." That explained it. It is one of man's monsters. I couldn't keep my mouth shut as I rode through. Tons of metal in twisted spires and coils. It looked like some artist's conception of the world of tomorrow. I decided that tomorrow's world is here today and marveled how the towering masses could all function with a purpose. The black, silver and rust colored monster seemed to throb and glower! My feet went much faster! I exputed to hear a blast and be enveloped in flames.

In the comparative normalcy of Port Arthur's main street, while looking up some friends of Judy's (Note—Norma stayed with Judy in Houston) a gray-headed man with a dark suit and silver badge accosted me, "Say young lady, you can't go around that way here!" At first I didn't get what he meant, then my new friends explained. I wasn't supposed to be on Main street in shorts. I lost my new jeans in the Colorado, also my shoes, but got new shoes in Barstrop. My Port Arthur friends gave me some old slacks so I can go to the Chamber of Commerce and the Post Office.

I'm going into Louisiana now. I only have $2 left, so will probably work there a while.

May 16, Friday, 8 a. m. (card). Didn't leave Port Arthur till 11 a. m. Rode through swamps all day, snakes on the highway thick as jackrabbits in Nevada. I watched seven snakes in water rushes, writhing around one. Slept in the woods 12 miles from Lake Charles, zipped up in the bedroll. Mosquitoes crawled in holes, ate me up. Spent the night fighting, scratching, swatting and howling. My face this a. m. looks like Don's did when he got into the hornets nest in Manva Valley, Hawaii. First thing I did in Louisiana at the Sabine river was eat my fill of mulberries and dewberries—thick on the swamp's edge. Coming into Lake Charles I passed southern mansions, Easter lilies, swamp lilies, water lilies, flowers galore! Long pale moss hangs from dense trees. Motorboat and launch docks line the lake shore. Sure am getting a lot of attention from men on the highway. Only have 50 cents. Love Norma.

Note—When Norma left San Antonio, she had enough cash to reach Baltimore, where her grandmother and a dozen or so aunts and uncles live, but she had to spend most of that on the new bike, etc., but she's making out fine. On the 19th she had reached Opelousas. Had 10 cents.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Mullican announced to The News this week that their niece, Beatrice Vincent of St. Louis, Mo., who lived with them at their home at 1616 Cable St. several years ago was married on Saturday, May 24, to Carrol Gregory in St. Louis.

FAITH OR FEAR

The world will go where our fears forecast unless they are replaced by knowledge and faith of where the world can go.

At present we are fearing business collapse which may be worse than 1929, and a new type of total war which, with atomic bombs, may mean total extermination of mankind. These dreads are not unrelated for depression brings inner weakness and division to encourage enemy attack. Fear, moreover, tends to become fact for it weakens enterprise, brings on a feeling of "What's the use?" and lessens our power to anticipate or work for anything else.

What else can happen to the world? If we should voluntarily cut down our rocketing prices—taking a little loss now to prevent great losses later—if we all cared enough and shared enough so everyone would have enough—we could forestall the collapse that we now foretell. And more. We could set a pattern of organic society which would attract rather than antagonize other nations, and thus create a world where war is as unthinkable as depression.

This is knowledge of what can happen. What about faith that it will? People have lived in this new caring relationship with each other. If any can, all can. Try it yourself, find that it works, and gain new hope for the world.

TIME BOMBS BY VIC

As I am so is my nation.

The man on the street is the man of the hour. But, at this critical hour, what street is he on?

Atomic defense is not to drop the first bomb but to change the other fellow's mind before he does.

Self-sacrifice, not self-seeking, is the cornerstone of a sound home.

Experts with data at their fingertips are no substitute for leaders with God in their hearts.

Great men are often those who think well of matters others hold ridiculous.

Some say what they will without feeling what they say.

The world's worst shortage is the shortage of uncommon sense.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

Excerpts from the Ocean Beach News of 20 Years Ago

Saturday, May 28, 1927

The home of G. F. McKenzie at 4828 Santa Monica Ave. was partly burned last Saturday afternoon. The fire is stated to have been due to spontaneous combustion in an oil and paint storeroom at the residence. Damage was estimated at $3000.

T. M. Williams is constructing a new frame cottage and garage at 2336 Etiwanda St. costing $2500.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Malchow, 5058 Lotus St. are building a beauitful stucco residence and garage to cost about $4500 at 2058 Venice St.

A son was born May 17 to Mr. and Mrs. William A. Lee of 4419 Saratoga Ave.

-:-

Mrs. J. W. Rankin of 4567 West Point Loma Blvd. is entertaining a girlhood friend for a few days, Mary Blackstone of Joliet, Ill.

Mrs. J. C. Mather of 4882 Niagara Ave. has returned to her home after a month spent very delightfully visiting relatives in Arcadia, Calif.

Letters to the Editor

division inasmuch as these are not usually transported by rail, but this was defeated.

It is possible that the state's percentage from "Charity Days" at State Fairs will be eliminated, thereby making the entire fund available for charity.

A bill has been passed providing that before unemployment insurance benefits are granted the applicant must have tried and failed to get work. The former practice was to require registration of applicants at the State Unemployment Offices, only.

The Governor's Budget has passed the Assembly in the total amount of $642,886,606. This is a million dollars or so more than recommended by the Governor. Several efforts to reduce or increase same were made upon the floor but only minor net changes were approved.

Four Special Investigators to the Attorney General, and not under civil service, were added to the budget. I opposed these, especially as the Justice Department appropriations in the budget represent an increase of 46.3 per cent over last year.

There is little prospect of the one hundred million dollar Socialized Housing Bill coming out of Committee. A suitable bill to foster low rent housing under private initiative seems desirable. However, no suitable formula other than low interest loans and removal of rental ceilings has been discovered and these would hardly suffice or be practicable.

The Aeronautics Commission Bill was heard in the Transportation and Commerce Committee, but owing to certain opposition this has been held over until next week. Prospects seem bright for ultimate passage.

An item has been recommended by the Assembly Ways and Means Committee to provide for a small State Recreation Commission to foster development of recreation throughout the state. This will not cost much at first but, like other activities, it will probably grow.

I have been informed that S. B. 1075, the bill to increase liquor licenses under the guise of "clubs," will probably be vetoed by the Governor. I voted against same.

A. B. 680, by myself, to appropriate $200,000 for site for State Building in San Diego, passed the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

Appropriations for Mental Hygiene Clinics and State Armories are still in the Budget and seem assured.

The "Three Billion Dollar Gas Tax Bill" is still in conference, with little likelihood of any increase in gas tax.

An attempt will reportedly be made to move Compulsory Health Insurance Bill out of the Assembly Committee, but there doesn't seem much chance of this. The Senate Committee has already tabled it.

It now appears that the legislature may adjourn about the middle of June, rather than the end of the month as heretofore expected.

FRANK LUCKEL,
Assemblyman.

O. B. ARTISTS REPRESENTED IN LA JOLLA ART SHOW

Eleanor Wilkevich and Thelma Underhill, local artists, are represented in the annual Membership Art Exhibition at the La Jolla Art Center.

Mrs. Wilkevich is showing a guache painting entitled "Dancers" which is a well-executed representation of a dancer and a clown.

Mrs. Underhill has a painting entitled "The Old Sea Captain," a portrait of a famous model who posed several times in Ocean Beach the past two years, Mr. Barnum.

"VIRGIL'S VIEWS"

Anybody hates to be wakened from a pleasant snooze, but when you awake just in time to collect a fifty dollar bill—well, that's something else again. And that's exactly what happened last Saturday night to M. C. Brady of 4440 Del Monte. Seems Mr. Brady was sitting in his car, parked across the street from Virgil's, and he was beginning to doze off when his number was called—or at least that's the way Mrs. Brady's story goes. At any rate, he seems to have awakened in time to collect the money, 'cause we saw Virgil give him that bill with our very own eyes. When we asked him what he was going to do with it, you know what he said? "Give it to Mrs. Brady." If Mrs. Brady wants to make any extra, we're sure she can, just by teaching other wives how she makes her man act like that. Or maybe he just talks like that.

Other prize winners up there on Upper Newport were Arthur Peterson Jr., and Mrs. John Kelso, who won $5 money orders. Mrs. W. W. Boxx who dragged her husband in to tote home the big box of oranges she won and Mrs. Woodall, who was so elusive that she got away before your reporter found out her initials. Maybe she doesn't like the glaring light of publicity.

But bigger and better things are still on the way. This is one time that people aren't making confetti of their tickets every time they lose, 'cause every ticket given away at Virgil's since the first of May is good for the Firstone radio this Saturday evening and for the seat covers that the Auto Trim shop is going to give away the following Saturday. Sure, you miss a lot of fun tearing up your tickets every week, but think what a mess it'll make when they finally do decide to change the series. It'll look like Times Square on New Year's Eve some night in front of Virgil's. But it looks like Christmas there every day now, because at the prices he charges, Virgil is practically giving the food away.

O. K. Ya don't believe me. O. K. I'll prove it t'ya. Yaaah! Lettuce, 5c a head, Cantaloupes 6c a pound, cherries 10c a pound, white rose potatoes, 10 lbs. for 19c, and we could go on and on. But there's one little item that particularly interests your reporter, and that's the luscious heaps of youngberries, firm, sweet and purple for a mere 10c a basket. Of course, that may not be quite back to the 3 for 25c days, but it's close enough for this baby, yessir. As for you, you can stay on your berry buyer's strike forever if you want to, but as for us, we're going to have a heaping bowl of delicious berries, encrusted with sugar and heaped with whipped cream for supper this very night. And so will yo, we bet! At Virgil's such delicacies are no longer luxuries!—Adv.
